

NOTABLE DEATH.—The Charleston Courier notices the death, in that city, of Colonel Francis Kinlock Huger, in the 82d year of his age, and tells us that, when a young man, he joined Dr. Elric Bollman, of Philadelphia, in a daring attempt to liberate the French patriot, Lafayette, from the dungeons of Olmutz; an enterprise which resulted in their own imprisonment for a long period. He was a pupil of the famous Dr. Hunter, and a fellow-student of Dr. Physick, of Philadelphia. On his return to his native land he served in the United States army, and commanded a regiment of artillery attached to the Southern Division in the war of 1812. He afterwards resigned, and became a prominent politician, member of the South Carolina Legislature, &c.
